

"You're Caught in This Matrix-and You Don't Even Know It (Most Gen Z Are)"

As a woman did you ever thought that What's the actual purpose of your life? Or you just trying to uphold your family!? Think about it wisely.
This Blog / Report is written down after reviewing various statistics, data, surveys and opinions of people from different continents!

Let's break it down, What if I said your parenting is not up to the mark? Currently the situation is both the parents Mother and Father are working professionals, which is good but did you realized that it is affecting your parenting!

Before stating facts and data first understand the situation at level of ancestral times. Our ancestors (men) who used to go out of home in early morning to hunt and gather supplies for their family members whereas the women used to effectively utilize those resources and upbringing their children with right mindset, knowledge, and behaviour!

At that time information was not easily accessed but now it is and men-women both have equal rights to get informed.

Till this point it was going so well and then the word women empowerment was introduced in this new era and this was the turning point for women and a win-win situation for men who don't want to take weightage on their shoulder.

Now understand carefully the ongoing situation :- It was superb that women due to women empowerment get informed and well educated. This inturn will lead to skilled women (Great to hear) but here's the twist, no one realised that this skills were not used for her personal benefit but most of the women are using it in workplace just to provide for their family.

Knowing or unknowingly, forcefully or willingly, Consciously or unconditionally the women are no more working for fun or exploring themselves but they are just doing that part of men which was never meant to be handled by a women.

Under the name of women empowerment and equality the men (Irresponsible men) are letting their woman to work for 9-12 hours in office and then also expect to tend their children, cook for family and do pay half the bills. If we notice carefully this was used to be done by men in our ancestors times, but now the women natural power is being used in wrong manner and she is forced to fulfill the needs of their family by working straight for hours and hours.

As per data it is concluded that almost 40-50 women work from every 100 men shocking!? This is the harsh reality.

The generation is falling into this trap.

Now let's look consequence and how this loop is going to be formed in future :-

1. First of all let's breakdown where actually the most women are suffering, it's all about the women from middle class background. Yes it's the actual reality!

Men from the middle class family are not putting their efforts to provide their family since the wave of unemployment got hit them and they have being dependent on their wife / woman as they are also earning.

Men are being comforted or becoming irresponsible to their actions and just letting things go away and getting into the section of lower middle class.

This is literally happening in every part of the world.

2. The children (GenZ) upbringing is done by a father who is jobless or who is just dependent on her wife and this is what the children are learning from their parenting. The women contains natural powers which they utilise to teach their children and grow them up into a responsible man but nowadays the women are so exhausted, frustrated and fatigue that they are not able to give 100% to their children. This children grow up and do the same thing under the word women empowerment / or being influenced by their father to be dependent on women or to share responsibilities equally.

3. The final stage where this loop is going to be formed very soon, of which we are not aware right now and it will going to be happened in 15-20 years from today.

So this short blog showcases how the GenZ tend to grow if proper upbringing is not laid down and this is not going to much affect upper class or rich people as they have much leisure time and maids to focus on their children. Lower class tend to struggle due to their financial situations and their children become mature due to stressful conditions around them 24/7 hence only the middle class families (which contains 50-60% of whole population) suffer from this situation. This can be eliminated by awareness and women taking thier authority and making boundaries between what she wants to do and what she doesn't want to.

She can right now also take full responsibility and learn skills to develop right mindset and upbringing their children so that they grew up into gentleman who are responsible for their actions and not dependent on their wife.

We can end this loop ☹ even before it get formed, all we need to do is just focus on providing to our family and letting our wife learn new skills that she can use to benefit herself and tend into her children!
